Sweeping Control Of Rehabilitation Aim Of Administration

SUBSIDIES TO BE USED

All Proposals Of Defunct Planning Board May Go Into Effect

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—A four-point government subsidy program for a rigidly-ruled post-war America was disclosed today to be on President Roosevelt's desk.

The far-reaching plan was prepared by the defunct National Resources Planning Board after three year's study, and contains every recommendation made by the President in his recent "fireside chat" outlining a sweeping program of government-supervised control of post-war rehabilitation.

Capital sources believe that the President must adhere to the entire program, which places the full burden of reconstruction, soldier aid and economic recovery on the federal government, if he is to complete the outline which he has already presented to the nation.

Subsidies Planned

The program of federal subsidy is designed to absorb between 8,000,000 and 9,000,000 unemployed in the two years immediately following the war. It includes the following four requisites coupled with similar statements issued by Mr. Roosevelt:

1. Removal of ex-servicemen

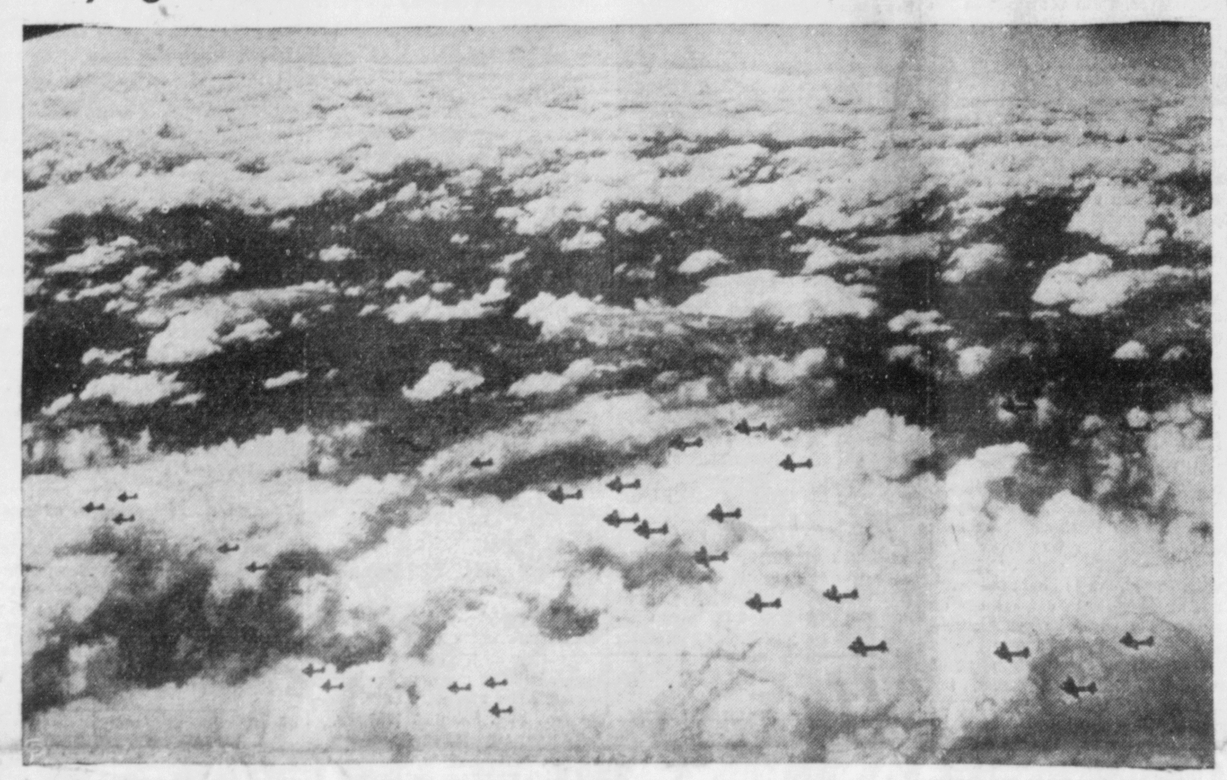
Flying Fortresses Make Beautiful Picture, but Not to Nazis



ALLIED SPIRITS ARE LIFTED by sights like this as a large formation of American Flying Fortresses makes a pattern against the clouds en route to Kiel and Wilhelmshaven, Germany, to bomb those Nazi cities. American bombers and night-flying R. A. F. bombers within the last few days have carried destruction to every corner of Italy and Germany. (International)

KNOX OPTIMISTIC ABOUT KISKA

Secretary Says No News Is Good News; U-Boat Losses Mounting

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Secretary of the Navy Knox declared today that "no news is good news" from Kiska in the north Pacific, and at the same time asserted that the Germans were losing submarines in the Atlantic faster than they can replace them.

At his weekly news conference, the secretary parried questions as to why there has been no report of American activity against Kiska since July 30 when an American task force bombarded installations on that island.

"You know that old story—no news is good news," Knox stated.

He declined to amplify that remark and refused to answer questions on recent raids of American planes against Paramushiru.

The Paramushiru raids were mentioned in the conference when Knox intimated that the bad

WICKARD BOARD WARNS U. S. CAN NOT FEED WORLD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's food advisory subcommittee today tossed a bombshell into the nation's food picture by warning that the United States cannot feed the world.

Wickard said the six-man group, which he appointed last March in his capacity as food administrator, "exceeded" its assignment in recommending that "surplus cobwebs" be "brushed from many an official brain on the subject of food" before the problem could be solved.

Wickard disclaimed responsibility for the group's conclusions, but the subcommittee, headed by E. W. Gaumitz, of the National Cheese Institute, held its ground and said that the war food program must be advanced "with all possible speed and vigor."

In a 26-point report, the group strongly urged establishment of a single agency to encourage, aid and develop the production of selected foods in other nations.

"I Do So Want To Live," Dying Girl Says In Plea For Miracle Drug

CHICAGO, Aug. 17 — A 20-year-old girl, sufferer from the dread blood disease, the staphylococci type of septicemia, today appealed to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt for help.

She asked the President's wife to intercede with the army to send the new miracle drug, penicillin, to her aid.

Lying in a bed at St. Luke's hospital after undergoing her thirteenth blood transfusion, pretty Marie Barker dictated the letter her paralyzed fingers would not permit her to write. Addressing Mrs. Roosevelt, Marie said:

"I am told that only the new drug, penicillin, will save my life. Also, that the army controls the entire supply.

"I do so want to live. Won't you please help me? Won't you ask the army to send me a little of their precious life-saving medicine so that I may have a fighting chance?

"I have so much to live for. I am engaged to marry a fine man now serving in the U. S. Army. When he has won his fight and I have won mine, we hope to marry.

"It is difficult for an ill-equipped soldier to win a battle. Will you please help me to win mine?"

Marie's fiance is Sgt. Elmer E. Peters of Chicago, now stationed at Camp Stewart, Ga., in anti-aircraft.

Marie was stricken suddenly July 17 when accompanying a girl friend, a weekend guest, to a dance. She was taken home and, failing to rally after two days in bed, was ordered to the hospital by her physician.

Today she entered her fifth week of hospitalization.

Her physician said:

"Marie has less than an even chance to recover. Our only hope lies in getting penicillin to her as quickly as possible."

GAS DEALERS IN EAST ANGERED BY OPA ACTION

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—The Office of Price Administration was accused today of treating eastern motorists like little boys to be rewarded with a stick of candy if they are good.

Sol Herzog, general counsel of the Eastern States Gasoline Dealers Association, said motorists in the East are resentful of the "slap on the wrist" delivered by Chester Bowles, general manager of the OPA, in promising increased gas rations if they obey pleasure ban rules.

"A piece of arrogance," was what Herzog called the assurance that if motorists "are good until September 1, they may get a piece of candy."

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

Well, a Connecticut woman who sent a postcard through the mails describing social security measures in Germany has been questioned by the FBI.

It seems she wrote that the Germans had social security for years and it didn't prevent them from going into a tailspin.

Naturally the law was suspicious. A state policeman was dispatched immediately to see where she had cached her bombs and how many trains she had wrecked.

This will teach you to enclose your birthday greetings in an envelope stamped on the outside "Do not open until Christmas." And make sure it's an FBI holiday.

And better check now on what happened to the postcards you sent from Lake Mudflats.

"Sleeping under two blankets" could be code for "Send two Axis divisions immediately . . . I can show them where the nylons are hidden."

Thought for the day: "Dear J. Edgar . . . having wonderful time . . . stay away."

AMERICAN MAY LEAD INVASION

Marshall Or Eisenhower Considered To Direct Axis Crushing

QUEBEC, Que., Aug. 17—Naming of a United States army officer to be in complete command of the expected Allied invasion of Europe proper was viewed today as one of the decisions to be reached during the military conferences here between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

In such an eventuality, observers here felt, Gen. George C. Marshall, United States army chief of staff, might well be the choice. A second nominee, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, was considered as a possible bet for the job, because of his phenomenally successful work from the invasion of French North Africa, last November 7, up to the current outstanding operations in Sicily.

Both men possess recognized military genius, and it is generally assumed here that one of the United States military high command will be given the task of directing the blows against Europe on the road to Berlin.

Sea To British

As in the current North African command setup, it is believed that a British naval officer will be named in charge of Allied sea operations connected with offensive operations now being planned in this historic city.

Of course, no one here expects

OFFICE POLITICS IRKS SPECIALIST IN OPA; HE QUITS

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Carl W. Kimball, regional OPA food price specialist for 14 months, today had resigned "disgusted with lack of executive knowledge" and "office politics" within the OPA.

In a bitter letter of resignation, Kimball complained that only three men were serving on the food panel and that none of them had had business experience.

The veteran food authority was a wholesale fruit dealer in New York for 40 years and for eight years prior to his joining the OPA was a deputy markets commissioner for the city of New York.

FEARFUL OF INVASION

Badoglio Plays For Time In Hopes Of Better Surrender Terms

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Italian civilian morale is rapidly crumbling into a state bordering on mass hysteria under the hammer blows of the American and British airforces on Italian cities, authoritative reports to the American government indicated today.

Panic gripped the population of Rome when American bomber groups smashed at the huge railroad yards within the city, and heavy casualties were caused in the thickly populated workingmen's areas bordering the bomb targets because the people lost their heads and ran about in the streets, terror-stricken.

This scene has been repeated in Naples, Milan and Turin, other hard-hit Italian cities, followed by widespread and mounting demands for peace.

Fear Intensified

The state of Italian nerves has been intensified by the Anglo-American march through Sicily, the realization that Germany is not prepared to defend the Italian boot, and that an Anglo-American invasion of Italy is now a matter of days, these reports stated.

Benito Mussolini, deposed Fascist leader, is reported being held a prisoner of the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio in a prison on the outskirts of Rome, which the deposed Fascists formerly used for their own political prisoners.

Despite the widespread deterioration of Italian morale, the Badoglio government is reported to be playing for time in the hope that the Allies, perhaps as a result of the Quebec conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, may bring Italy peace terms more fa-

THIRD SLAYING NOW DENIED BY HENRY HAGERT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 17 — Although Henry William Hagert repudiated his confession to the slaying of a third boy, Cleveland detectives today nevertheless continued to check reports of missing boys for other possible victims of the 17-year-old confessed killer of Charles and James Collins, 13-year-old twins.

Hagert, after confessing he killed 15-year-old Edgar Bowen last March made a counter-confession late yesterday, asserting he had told the false story to relieve the minds of the boy's parents.

"I figured his parents would always be wondering where he was," said the youth, "and rather than have them do that I made up the story."

Meanwhile, nine-year-old John Buchanan, whom Hagert also has confessed attacking, told police of repeated blows inflicted while he was Hagert's captive. Detectives said the Buchanan boy's description of Hagert's automobile confirmed the youth's confession to the attack.

Bodies of the Collins twins, murdered in a lonely woods in suburban Bay Village, were buried yesterday.

JAPANESE GET TOUCH OF JUMPS

Tokyo Commentators Show Growing Concern Over Progress Of War

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Continuing reports of Allied successes on fighting fronts throughout the world were reflected today in mounting signs of "jitters" displayed by the Tokyo radio.

Coupled with reports of American and Allied gains in the Mediterranean and the south and southwest Pacific, the coming conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill foreshadowed important new developments in the near future.

Tokyo radio commentators in recent broadcasts have shown mounting concern over progress of the Pacific conflict and have reiterated warnings to their listeners to prepare for new blows, including bombing raids on the Jap homeland.

The only front from which there was no official news was the north Pacific, where no action has been reported against Japheld Kiska since July 30.

While bad weather undoubtedly has slowed down sea-air action against the Jap garrison on Kiska, yet American bombers from the Aleutians recently made a long flight to hit the enemy bases in the northern Kurils.

Meanwhile the ever-lengthening range of American bombing attacks against the Axis throughout the world indicated that soon

YANK PREFERS GERMAN OVER ITALIAN CAMPS

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Mortimer Belshaw, of San Francisco, a 29-year-old veteran of five German and Italian prison camps, today said if it had to be one or the other, he preferred the Nazis' treatment of prisoners.

An ambulance driver in the American field service, Belshaw was captured near Matruh, in Africa, just before the British Eighth army's drive from El Alamein. He was released in April when he was one of 29 American medical personnel officers exchanged under arrangements by the British Red Cross.

Belshaw, home on leave, said while he was under German control things weren't too bad, but when the Italians took over "to be brief about it, they were mean."

New Victories Reported In Triple-Pronged Russian Drive

BULLETIN

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, Aug. 17—American 115 MM. artillery today began to shell Axis positions on the Italian mainland, reports to headquarters said.

By International News Service

The American Seventh army today smashed its way into the port of Messina, and official announcement of the fall of the city and the end of the Sicilian campaign was expected momentarily.

London quoted an unconfirmed report by the Algiers radio saying that Messina already had fallen.

A headquarters announcement disclosed that the third division of the American Seventh army reached the outskirts of the last remaining post in enemy hands at 8 p. m. yesterday following a third spectacular amphibious landing behind German positions only eight miles west of Messina.

News of the rapid surge of Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's army into Messina prompted General Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied supreme commander, to predict that Messina, if it were not taken last night, would fall today.

Berlin Admits Ouster

An official communique issued by the Nazi high command and broadcast from Berlin said that the Germans had evacuated all of Sicily, and it was asserted that in addition to getting their wounded across the straits of Messina the Axis had removed allied prisoners of war to the mainland.

The push into Messina came 38 days after allied troops first put ashore in southern Sicily in the greatest invasion operation of the war.

While the Seventh army marched into the port, Britain's Eighth army moved rapidly up the east coast to occupy Santa Teresa Di

DRAFT OF WAR WORKERS SOON, IS POSSIBILITY

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17—Completing a brief survey of the critical manpower shortage in Southern California, Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson and key Washington officials left the warning today that nation-wide conscription of war workers may be necessary "in the near future."

Failure of many Pacific coast aircraft plants to complete highly accelerated production quotas prompted the visit of the high officials.

"We need bombers, we need fighters and we need transports," declared Patterson. "But we are not getting them in the required numbers.

"Production is lagging in a number of aircraft plants on the west coast, heart of the nation's aircraft manufacture," he said. "Failure to overcome that lag means a longer war and the death of fighting men who might otherwise have lived."

Declaring that the answer is better utilization of manpower, Patterson said:

"We have 136,000,000 people and labor is not yet being used on an all-out basis. National conscription may be the answer."

Riva, 15 miles south of Messina.

Battlefront dispatches indicated that enemy resistance was practically at an end, though here and there a few stubborn rear-guards slowed up the final Allied advance.

A Reuter's dispatch from Allied hearquarters said the American troops were battling their way into the heart of Messina and the waterfront area in an effort to cut off the escape of remaining Axis forces.

End of Campaign

"The Sicilian campaign has ended," the Reuter's dispatch said. "The Americans along the northern coastal road began shelling Messina's outer defenses yesterday."

The Americans reached the outskirts of Messina at 8 p. m. Monday (2 p. m. eastern war time).

Allied bombers, operating on a 'round-the-clock basis, battered away not only at the shrinking Messina bridgehead but also at the Reggio Di Calabria area and enemy communications hundreds of miles to the north.

The Germans were scrambling desperately to get out of Sicily while constantly harrassed by Allied bombs and shells. Small boats, of every description were pressed into service by the Nazis in their precipitate flight. As usual they left the Italians behind with orders to fight to the bitter end, but the Italians are not listening very attentively to Nazi orders these days.

More effective than the Italian troops left behind by the Nazis were their minefields and demolitions. But Allied sappers quickly cleared paths for the infantry and the advance of the foot-soldiers was not seriously slowed.

"Engineers' Show"

At Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters, an official spokesman described the Sicilian campaign today as "hardly more than an engineers' show" and added that the end of the first Allied invasion of European territory was "now at hand."

There were indications that the Germans have evacuated the bulk of their forces and equipment, but some Allied observers felt that thousands of Nazis may still be caught. Organized resistance was diminishing by the hour, exactly as it did in the final stages of the Cape Bon Campaign in Tunisia.

The Nazis were understood to have ordered two Italian regiments "to fight to the death" along a ring of defenses five miles outside of Messina to cover the Nazi flight across the strait, but the war-weary Italians are not expected to carry out the order.

Turin Bombed

Other Allied communiques told of still another British bomber raid on the industrial city of Turin in northern Italy and aerial assaults on important Italian airdromes in the vicinity of Foggia, 80 miles northwest of the mainland port of Naples.

The non-stop aerial offensive against captive Europe continued this forenoon as a great force of Allied bombers roared across the straits of Dover from England, escorted by many squadrons of fighter planes, in the direction of Boulogne.

In England, new rumors of impending Allied invasion of the European continent from the west cropped up in the wake of proclamations severely restricting civilian activities along a stretch of England's southern coast and two smaller areas. The decree, affecting thousands who must leave within eight days, virtually created military zones in coastal areas facing Nazi-occupied France.

From Russia came word of new victories in the triple-pronged Soviet drive westward toward the Germans' secondary defense line along the Dnieper. Red Army forces approaching the vital Nazi base of Bryansk, west of Moscow, were reported within 12 miles of the city on the south and within 15 miles on the east. North of Bryansk, Soviet units scored new advances in the Spas Demensk sector and increased the threat to the Nazi-held Bryansk - Smolensk railroad.

Front-line reports from Kharkov said Russian troops battling the Germans in the northeast end of the city had advanced to within a mile of the center of the city, Red army detachments pressed on towards Poltava against desperate German resistance.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in the southwest Pacific announced American seizure of Vella Lavalla island in the Solomons. Capture of the island, along with 350 Jap survivors of the Kula gulf naval battles, flanked the Nipponese air and supply base at Vila on Kolombangara island, which lies between Vella Lavella and New Georgia island. American jungle troops are now mopping up the last Jap resistance on New Georgia.

Revolt Possible

In Washington, however, it is stated that the Badoglio government is running the risk of revolt within Italy that may sweep it from office with violence and bloodshed unless it achieves an early and more favorable turn of events.

Intensification of the American daylight mass raids and the RAF night mass raids against ports and industrial cities, together with an Allied landing in force on the Italian mainland from Sicily, are expected to bring a climax in Italy within the next 30 days.

There is believed to be a strong possibility that the royal house of King Victor Emmanuel may be swept away with the Badoglio government if the situation within Italy reaches the point of internal revolution.

U. S. LIGHTNINGS DOWN 12 JAPS IN SKY BATTLE

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Aug. 16—(Delayed)—Lightning pilots from this advanced air base scored one of the best P-38 victories yet recorded in New Guinea today when they accounted for 12 of a formation of 25 Japanese dive-bombers in a half-hour sky battle near Lae.

Capt. Harry Brown of Amarillo, Tex., who flew Aircobras before becoming a Lightning pilot, scored the top tally for the day by bagging three Japs, raising to six his total victories to date.

Lieut. Arthur Wenige of Asheville, N. C., snared two, making his total three. Lieut. Lowell Lutton of Chicago, Ill., battered one Jap into the jungles. Lieut. Jack Mankin of Kansas City, Mo., slugged two, raising his score to three, and Lieut. Paul Smith of Sugar Grove, W. Va., shot down one Jap.

BOARD STUDIES VIOLATIONS OF TRAFFIC RULES

The board conducted hearings Monday night and declared that it would send notices to all persons called before it within a few days. Penalties, if any, will be disclosed through the mail.

SEVEN NABBED BY POLICE IN ACTIVE NIGHT

Police had one of their busy nights Monday when seven persons were ordered or taken into headquarters on varied charges.

Donald Leist, 32, of Circleville Route 3, and his wife, Pauline, 31, were arrested at 2 a. m., the former on a charge of intoxication and permitting an unlicensed driver to operate his car, and the latter on charges of driving when intoxicated. Both remained in jail Tuesday awaiting hearings before Mayor Ben H. Gordon.

Goldie Carpenter, 21, of 157 York street, and Irene Mumaw, 15, of Town street, were ordered by police to report before the mayor at 8 p. m. Tuesday after they were taken into custody at Court and Main streets. Nature of charges against them was not disclosed by police.

Ralph McCollister, 43, Joe Bevins, 65, and James Ladd, 38, all of near Circleville, were arrested at 10:10 p. m. Monday for intoxication. McCollister and Bevins posted $10 bond each while Ladd remained in jail.

AUTOIST NABBED, FLEES, AND IS CAPTURED AGAIN

A three hour search Monday night for William McCollister, Circleville Route 1, by Deputy Sheriff Vern Pontious bore fruit when McCollister was arrested on the river bridge west of Circleville. The man is charged with having physical control of an automobile when he was intoxicated.

Pontious arrested him at 8 p. m. on South Scioto street, but McCollister fled as the deputy was putting him in jail. McCollister had stopped to talk with a trusty as Pontious entered the jail, but had fled when the deputy waited for him.

The search started at that time and continued until 11 o'clock.

weather had hampered American operations against Kiska.

"How is it then that U. S. planes could take off and land in the Aleutians for the attack against Paramushiru if they could not operate against Kiska?" a reporter asked.

Knox replied that "I can't answer that question."

In regard to the Atlantic, Knox stated it was apparent that during the last few months the Germans have lost submarines at a greater rate than they could replace them.

Recently President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill issued an estimate that during three months of operations ending in July the Nazis lost more than 90 U-boats.

"I think they are having trouble getting new submarines into commission," Knox said. "I'm sure that the recent American and British bombing raids could not be conducive to submarine production."

The secretary of the navy estimated that the Germans had between 300 and 500 submarines and that the Nazis undoubtedly were "digging into reserves" to make up the recent losses.

Knox reported that the strength of the U. S. Navy at the present time was 1,700,000 enlisted men and that the authorized strength was 2,300,000. This does not include the Marine Corps or Coast Guard.

that Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Churchill will announce the choice.

As in the case of past military decisions, it is obvious that the selection can become known to the public only as the course of the war, and the invasion, disclose the commanding general.

Meanwhile, military discussions continued at the Chateau Frontenac, overlooking the St. Lawrence river. Churchill, likewise, plunged into the complicated military decisions confronting him, and resumed work within minutes after returning to his official Quebec residence after a three day conference wth President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y.

There were signs here of anxiety over the delayed arrival of President Roosevelt to the scene of the conferences, but a White House statement reiterating that he would make the trip, served to ease the mounting tension.

It was expected also, on high authority, that British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden would arrive from London in time to participate in the late stages of the conferences—expected to concern international diplomatic developments and decisions.

When Eden arrives in Quebec, it is expected that he will be met by a representative of the U. S. department of state.

MEANEST THIEF STEALS WHEELS OFF PUSH CART

Baxter Anderson, 220 Barnes avenue, makes much of his living with a push cart. Baxter and his cart can be seen at all hours of the day hauling almost anything that anyone wants hauled.

Baxter offers a nominee for the "world's meanest thief" title.

Anderson reported to police Tuesday that someone had stolen the wheels from his cart when he left it standing in an alley at the rear of the fire department. Baxter asked police assistance in recovering the wheels.

FARM WORKERS CAPTURE PAIR OF AUTO THIEVES

Cooperation of two Pickaway county farmhands resulted Tuesday in arrest of two Columbus youths on charges of automobile theft. Sheriff Charles Radcliff said that John Lee Reynolds, 19, of 2260 Groveport pike, and Edgar Junior Bartlett, 18, of 472 Glendower avenue, had admitted taking a 1937 Ford coupe. The sheriff said the car they were driving was stolen August 12 in Athens. The youths claim they took it from Columbus.

The sheriff was called to the Walter Goodman farm at 8 a. m. Tuesday where Elzie Stumbo and John Williams, who work for Mr. Goodman, were holding the youths. The Goodman employes saw the youths changing license plates on the car at the C. and O. railroad overhead.

Calling to the youths, Stumbo and Williams went to the overhead but the boys ran. However, they returned in a few minutes. The farm hands took the youth to the Goodman farm where Curtis Bower, who also lives there, called Radcliff.

The tags on the car were numbered K-152 which belong to young Reynolds, but the youth admitted stealing the vehicle.

WOULD-BE THIEF FLEES, LEAVES WALTERS' AUTO

A thief who had stolen the Ford automobile of Charles Walters, Lancaster pike, escaped Monday night, but the car was recovered through the alertness of Walters' mother, Mrs. John E. Walters.

The car was taken from beside the Charles Walters home, and the thief, not knowing the road to the John Walters home was blind, drove that way trying to escape. Mrs. Walters heard the car being maneuvered for a turn, and raised a window of her home. The thief apparently heard the window because he fled, leaving the car there.

Deputy Vern Pontious patroled roads of the vicinity until daylight but was unable to find the would-be thief.

and young war workers from the labor market by government-financed education and re-training for a period not to exceed six years in any case. A "reasonable" living allowance would be provided and training given only in fields of anticipated labor shortage.

In his latest "fireside chat" the President's third post-war plan was:

"An opportunity for members of the armed services to get further education or trade training at the cost of their government."

Social Security

2. Financial protection through extended social security, government controlled unemployment and severance pay to servicemen.

The first, second and fourth points in the President's speech were:

"1. Mustering-out pay to every member of the armed forces and merchant marine when he or she is honorably discharged, large enough in each case to cover a reasonable period of time between his discharge and the finding of a new job.

"2. In case no job is found after diligent search, then unemployment insurance if the individual registers with the United States Employment Service.

"4. Allowance of credit to all members of the armed forces, under unemployment compensation and federal old-age and survivors' insurance for their period of service. For these purposes they should be treated as if they had continued their employment in private industry."

The planning board's third point was:

3. All possible government aid to hasten re-conversion of war plants to peacetime industries.

The speech of the President included the following paragraph:

"That larger objective of reconverting war-time America to a peace-time basis is one for which your government is laying plans to be submitted to the congress for action."

CAIN POSTS BOND

Alton Cain, West Water street, was released under $200 bond Monday afternoon after Mayor Ben H. Gordon bound him to the grand jury on an assault and battery charge filed by Cain's wife. Mrs. Cain appeared at police headquarters late Sunday night and asked to be permitted to remain the rest of the night there so her husband would not be able to reach her. Cain appeared voluntarily at police headquarters Monday afternoon to face charges.

TAXI, AUTO CRASH IN SOUTH PART OF CITY

A taxicab driven by Howard Conley, 214 West High street, and the automobile of Lewis McClarren, Logan street, driven by Mrs. McClarren, collided at 5:35 p. m. Monday in the rear of the Winorr Canning Co. plant, both vehicles being damaged. No one was injured, however. Patrolman George Green who investigated said Conley was on a road in the rear of the factory when Mrs. McClarren drove from the factory grounds, her car striking the side of the cab.

U. S. bombers probably will be able to hit even the most remote Axis stronghold.

Several raids have been made in various parts of the world recently that required round-trip flights from 2,000 to 2,600 miles, and undoubtedly plane improvements and new bombers soon will boost that to 3,000 miles or possibly more.

Tho two outstanding examples of American long-range attacks were the recent raids against the German planes plant 30 miles south of Vienna (2,600 miles) and the attack on Jap-held Balikpapan, Borneo, (2,500 miles).

In official quarters the belief has been growing that Japan's war effort would not be crippled seriously until American planes could begin a regular pounding of Tokyo and other munitions centers.

A message for you...from 1953

(Today, John Jones is just an average American, wrestling with all the doubts and worries and problems that beset every one of us right now. But let's skip ahead 10 years. Let's look at John Jones then—and listen to him . . .)

"SOMETIMES I feel so good it almost scares me.

"This house—I wouldn't swap a shingle off its roof for any other house on earth. This little valley, with the pond down in the hollow at the back, is the spot I like best in all the world.

"And they're mine. I own 'em. Nobody can take 'em away from me.

"I've got a little money coming in, regularly. Not much—but enough. And I tell you, when you can go to bed every night with nothing on your mind except the fun you're going to have tomorrow—that's as near Heaven as a man gets on this earth!

"It wasn't always so.

"Back in '43—that was our second year of war, when we were really getting into it—I needed cash. Taxes were tough, and then Ellen got sick. Like most everybody else, I was buying War Bonds through the Payroll Plan—and I figured on cashing some of them in. But sick as she was, it was Ellen who talked me out of it.

"'Don't do it, John!' she said. 'Please don't! For the first time in our lives, we're really saving money. It's wonderful to know that every single payday we have more money put aside! John, if we can only keep up this saving, think what it can mean! Maybe someday you won't have to work. Maybe we can own a home. And oh, how good it would feel to know that we need never worry about money when we're old!'

"Well, even after she got better, I stayed away from the weekly poker game—quit dropping a little cash at the hot spots now and then—gave up some of the things a man feels he has a right to. We made clothes do—cut out fancy foods. We didn't have as much fun for awhile but we paid our taxes and the doctor and—we didn't touch the War Bonds.

"We didn't touch the War Bonds then, or any other time. And I know this: The world wouldn't be such a swell place today if we had!'

STUDY FOR SOLDIERS

THE War Production Board has lifted all the Special Services Division of the U. S. War Department, speaking from London, said that American troops were enrolling in army correspondence courses at the rate of 1,500 a week, and that enrollment looked as if it would reach 100,000 by November.

Great Britain teaches its soldiers, too. Gen. Osborn said he had been in England to study the British methods, which were in some respects in advance of ours.

It is easy enough to see that soldiers in camp here and waiting for action in such places as England and Iceland might want to study. Ambitious American lads do not like to waste the time that might be putting them ahead for their work after the war is over. But it is an eye-opener as to the quality of our boys to find that 1,400 of them were studying by means of such correspondence courses on Guadalcanal while the battle for that island was going on, and 1,200 are also studying in the Aleutians. Maybe in these two very different but equally unpleasant stations the study helped to take their minds off their troubles. In any case, the boys who will do concentrated mental work under such circumstances will not easily be stopped in after life.

OLD-FASHIONED SUPPER

THE War Production Board has lined all restrictions on use of synthetic or natural rubber for rings to seal glass jars. The pear crop is turning out better than expected, too, and may help to compensate for a lack of peaches. There is hope for the good old American supper dessert of canned fruit and cookies, although the cookies may be a little tougher than usual —shortening showing a tendency to shortage and pastry flour to doing a vanishing act. But they'll be eaten with enjoyment anyhow.

Let's see—what was the rest of that evening meal which served America for a century and still does in many districts? There was cold meat left from dinner and fried or creamed potatoes. Bread with thick butter and jam. Pickles. Tea, with plenty of rich milk for the children. Not bad, not bad.

The butter will be spread thin this year, the milk will be measured into a glass apiece instead of poured bountifully from a fat pitcher. The cold meat will be sliced thin, too, if any. Potatoes will be baked, with salt. Maybe victory vegetables will be on the table.

It will not be a luxurious or extravagant winter, but Americans are tough and will come through in fine shape. There'll be plenty of food to do good work on, and that's the great end to be desired this year.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

NEW SYNTHETIC TIRES

WASHINGTON — When you get your new set of synthetic tires, don't expect to go tearing down the road at sixty miles an hour. The sad news is that passenger tires made of synthetic rubber will not be strong enough to endure high speeds or rough roads.

Present plans call for production of passenger tires from synthetic rubber without an admixture of natural rubber, except for a mere five ounces required to cement the plies together. This will mean an indefinite continuation of the 35 miles-an-hour speed limit, and it will also mean that you can't drive with absolute safety on rocky country roads, or over any very rough surfaces.

A jagged stone or rock will readily rip a synthetic tire, and the break tends to "run" or become large without further abuse.

In short, synthetic rubber will be conspicuous for its quantity more than its quality. It will not serve for heavy duty of any kind, either civilian or military.

The Germans have recognized the weakness of synthetic, and have mixed 40 percent natural rubber with 60 percent synthetic in the manufacture of heavy duty tires. Sometimes they rely on natural rubber 100 percent. Tires received here from captured Nazi aircraft reveal that they contain no synthetic.

(The Germans have continued to receive natural rubber until early this year, via French ships which brought the rubber from Japanese-held East Indies. In 1942, they received 50,000 tons. This commerce has been cut off, however, by the North African campaign and the end of French overseas collaboration with Germany).

In the early hopeful days, U. S. experts planned to mix only 5 percent natural rubber with 95 percent synthetic for trucks and combat tires. But this was found to be too weak, and the mixture was changed to 10 percent natural and 90 percent synthetic. Even then, the tire was too weak, and it was changed twice more—to 20 and 80; then to 30 and 70.

This will probably be the final recipe for combat tires—30 percent natural rubber and 70 percent synthetic. Though this formula uses more synthetic than the Germans use, U. S. experts declare they now know more than the Germans and can produce better stuff.

However, civilian passenger tires, unlike combat tires, will carry almost no natural rubber, except for trucks.

VICTOR MATURE

Coast Guard officials shake their heads in wonderment and admit that a matinee idol from Hollywood is really doing a valiant job as a bosun's mate on a Coast Guard Cutter. The name is Victor Mature.

His ship operates in north Atlantic waters, and was active in the rescue of the two survivors from the Escanaba.

There is no hair gloss or finger-nail polish on this man. He knows how to handle a ship's gear, and how to give orders and take them. But when the ship comes to New York, Mature lines up his shipmates, divides them into squads, and leads them, one squad at a time, uptown to meet movie actresses who might be in the city.

DIET AND HEALTH

Penalties of Overeating

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

INTESTINAL fortitude is the kind of phrase that can lead to some misunderstanding. I am not sure that I agree with the general conception that relates mental to organic types. I have known several people with "good hearts" who have made a mess of their own and their family's lives.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

So with intestinal fortitude. Lots of people have intestines which run away but come back to fight another day. I am speaking of the people who euphemistically and in the most polite circles are referred to as having irritable colons.

Now this simply means that their colons are not made of iron, but of flesh and blood. It means that their colons shy off a little when put through the routine of showing the visiting fireman the town Saturday night. The visiting fireman has no irritable colon —where his large intestine ought to be is something in between a Flying Fortress and festung Europa.

Glutton for Punishment

Saturday night they start at Good Charley's, eat a shovelful of those sandwiches made of hard-boiled eggs, and the other kind made of tough, coiled-up fish, then go on to a good rousing dinner at the Kansas City Steak Joint and after visiting a few hot spots wind up at the Dirty Spoon for a few waffles, doughnuts, wheat cakes and coffee.

Instead of jeering at the fellow with an irritable colon after a night like this, you ought to compliment his colon on showing great common sense in getting rid of the dregs of the evening's debauch.

The treatment of the irritable-colon patient, then, is fairly simple. First is psychological. He must get it through his dome he is not a visiting fireman type. It sometimes takes a long time to do this. The other part of the treatment is dietary. Eat the things that are simple to digest and do not subject your digestive system to a test of strength with Nature's most durable foods.

Diet for Irritable Colon

A sample "smooth" diet for these people is:

Beverages: Coffee; cream, malted milk.

Bread and Cereals: White bread; crackers; white rice; spaghetti; noodles; macaroni; cream of wheat; (exclude whole wheat products, bran or other forms of cellulose).

Vegetables: Mashed potatoes; puree of peas; beans; asparagus; beets; carrots.

Fruits: Ripe bananas; strained orange juice; strained tomato juice.

Desserts: Custard; gelatin, rice pudding; cornstarch pudding; sponge cake; angel food cake; blancmange.

Sources of Protein: Cottage cheese; American cheese; cream cheese; eggs; chicken (white meat); fish; scraped beef; cream soups.

Other Foods: Salt; butter; olive oil.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. P.: Could inflamed gums and teeth cause neuralgic pains for months?

Answer: Dr. Donald Munro, a well-known neurosurgeon of Boston, wrote on June 3, 1943, "Pulp stones, malocclusion, apical infections and pyorrhea cause equally severe facial pain.

E. L. H.: Can all vegetables be eaten by a person having gallbladder trouble? Should they be cooked?

Answer: The only foods that affect the gallbladder are fats. So vegetables are all right cooked or raw.

Leave My Heart Alone

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

DURING THE weeks that followed that night when she and Martin had visited the tower, the night when she had introduced the two men, Paul and Martin, Karen was to keep on asking herself what Fate was up to. She had to blame someone, so now that the moon was barred, it might as well be Fate. It was something that kept throwing her and Martin Haliday together, not just into accidental meetings, but into each other's arms!

She could not believe that it was a mere physical attraction. Martin's attraction for her was not physical. Paul was far more handsome and attractive in that appeal. She admired Martin's character, respected his mind, agreed with much of his philosophy. But that was not enough to make her thrill at the slightest touch from him, to be drawn toward him as if by a strong magnet, to experience the oneness of that suspended moment they had shared together in the tower.

She had never responded in any such way to Paul. Had he found a difference when he had kissed Eva? Was it just that there was a difference, therefore a novelty. But, no, that made that moment, that first kiss, cheap, rendering them so meaningless that erasure should not be difficult. And although she had decided the only thing to do was to forget that anything had happened, Karen found that to forget was the one thing she could not do.

Of course she did not go on remembering all the time. She was much too busy, too occupied now for that. There were the holidays, which were much more demanding this year with a little boy in the big house and the feeling that perhaps this might be the last truly joyous Christmas and happy New Year for the duration. And then, after the holidays were over Buffy did manage to "catch" something; he had to be kept in bed for ten days and watched carefully for an even longer period.

That postponed the fishing trip with Marty and the anticipated visit at the trailer camp. It also meant that, as Martin did not come to see the boy when he was at play on the beach, Karen did not see Martin, either.

This, she decided, was just as well.

Besides, the beach was no longer quite as pleasant a place to be as it had been. There were new curfew regulations restricting anyone from being on the beach, even the private ones, after sundown. The sea itself was full of oil that was washed up onto the shore, staining one's feet and clothing and bringing grim reminder that, as Marty had expressed it, there were more boats being sunk than could be replaced. Sometimes there was other refuse: broken bits of wood and the like, fragments of crude rubber. At one time a bunch of bananas floated in to repose against the breakwater near the bathhouse and at another time Karen saw the police rolling up some tires that had ridden the waves.

Grimmest of all was a lifeboat, now anchored near the city dock. It was charred and burned, and full of bullet holes. The submarine that had sunk that freighter had fired on the men as they had tried to row away. Often one could see big clouds of dark smoke, lasting for hours, on the brim of the horizon, meaning that another ship was sinking slowly to its deep grave. There was one sinking within a few miles of shore, a sight that caught at one's throat and brought the sting of tears to the eyes as crowds gathered for miles to witness that slow destruction. Much of its cargo was saved, but there were men whose flesh was horribly blackened from the explosion and the blistering oil, whose suffering and courage no one, having seen, could ever forget.

This was war, although as yet there were many people living far from the coast who had not awakened to this fact. There was talk of gasoline rationing for the eastern seaboard; there would be sugar rationing books and, later, other commodities, as the government struggled with the problem of keeping enough for all and maintaining ceiling prices that would prevent inflation. People were buying War Bonds and Stamps, no longer for defense, but with the hope of a future offensive. The winter resort that had been a playground for the idle and rich was overrun with boys in khaki.

"They're so young these boys, even the ones with wings," Karen protested. Their bright, young, eager faces twisted her heart; their plucky cheer and reckless courage were dominant, but it was difficult to meet it with responding warmth when one realized that they did not know the teachery of the enemy they must face, that they would be sent to the farthest, smallest, most uncivilized corners of the globe—and that many of them would never come back.

Karen wondered again what Martin would do, what part he would seek. She had not asked him, although she had wanted to. It was unthinkable that he would not somehow do his part. She admired him far too much in other ways to discredit him in this. He might, of course, be waiting to be drafted. If so, it might not be long before he would have to go away. Since she wanted him to be in things, it was a contradiction not to want this to happen. But everything was a contradiction these days, the world itself, madly trying to kill off its peoples and its civilization and denounce its faiths. So that it was no wonder Karen's little world should be off balance.

Outwardly it remained in some ways the same; things were, on the surface, the same between herself and Paul, although she knew they were not underneath. They were not the same within herself, not just because of Martin, although partly that, if she would be entirely honest. She was certain they were not the same within Paul, not because he behaved any differently toward her, but because he was too careful to be the same.

She did not know whether he was seeing Eva Parks or not, or how Eva was making out in her attempt to win him away from Karen. The way time was flying spring would be upon them all, maybe too soon. But there seemed nothing to do except wait for spring and for whatever it might bring with it.

Karen still wore the gorgeous ring on the right finger of her left hand. She would not take it off unless Paul asked for it. She would wear another, a circlet of sapphires and diamonds, if their wedding took place in the spring. She would not, dared not, let herself think otherwise, for surely by then everything somehow would have been straightened out.

It was a conversation about Martin that led unreasonably to another topic that might be the beginning of that "straightening"—at least so Karen hoped. She had felt all along that if only Paul would tell her about Eva it would help. Maybe she was inconsistent, femininely so, in not telling Paul in exchange about Martin. But since there had been so little—one kiss — one shared moment — and even that was all over and done with, except in Karen's thoughts.

She was thinking about Martin, wondering when she would see him again, if ever, as maybe he already had hitched his trailer onto his ridiculous little car and had driven out of her world, although surely he would not do that without coming to say goodby to Buffy, when Paul mentioned his name.

"Whatever became of that fellow who lived in a trailer camp, that friend of yours and Buffy's?" Paul asked. It was a natural enough question. Karen had wondered why, having met Marty that night, Paul never had expressed any further interest or curiosity in him. Yet it startled her, maybe due to her conscience again.

"What makes you ask? I suppose he's still living in his camp. Neither Buffy nor I have seen him since the night he was here." Why, that had been more than a month ago!

"Oh, I just wondered." Paul sounded as if that had been his only reason. Then he added, "He was a queer duck. Sort of a Communist or some such, I gathered. Maybe worse than that."

"What do you mean?" Karen was angry at herself for resenting Paul's superior attitude, when he actually knew so little about Martin.

"Well, he might be one of many things these days. You have to be very careful whom you befriend. The country and this particular small community are seething with people who would like to make trouble, whose background is very vague."

"If you mean that Martin might be a fifth columnist of some kind or a saboteur, that's ridiculous!" Karen felt that she was on sure ground there.

"I don't think so." Paul sounded just as firm. "In fact, I'm pretty sure or I wouldn't say what I'm going to say."

Those whose birthday it is are urged to a policy of patience and perseverance during the year, which seems beset with obstacles, frustrations and impediments, making it difficult to make much progress in any direction. German Blasting Starts Soon | Present Raids Are "Warmup"

Special to Central Press

● WASHINGTON—Watch the plane-choked European skies the next three months for the answer to the Army Air Corps theory that Germany virtually can be blasted out of the war by aerial bombardment.

Already Hamburg, Cologne, Essen and other big German cities lie practically in ruins, their war-vital industries paralyzed, their once-busy streets a "no man's land" of charred rubble.

Tens of thousands of German citizens, who believed Goering's boast that no hostile plane ever would bomb the Reich, are dead. Other tens of thousands are wounded. Hundreds of thousands are homeless. . . . Berlin is believed to be the next target for a super block-busting raid by the RAF and the flying forts.

Berlin Is Marked for Destruction

The raid which will be unleashed on the German capital will be without precedent in the history of mass destruction. The British and the Americans are prepared to suffer extremely heavy losses in bombers and men when they attack Berlin.

But they are determined to deliver a knockout blow even more deadly than the one that smashed Hamburg to smithereens.

Evacuation of Berlin by civilians not in war work is under way for the Nazis know what is coming. The populace, for the most part, is terror-stricken and morale is at a low ebb—the boastful propaganda of Herr Goebbels now reduced to a whine.

Allied air commands are asking the question: How much can the Germans stand?

Probably the two most critical months of the air assault on Hitler's European fortress will be September and October. At that time the Army Air Corps will have enough flying forts and Liberators to do a real job of blitzing the Reich to bits.

Despite the vast destruction wrought by American daylight raiding planes, comparatively few four-motored bombers have been used in any single raid—not more than 250 or 300.

At the rate American plane production has zoomed in the past few months, especially in the heavy bomber class, the Air Corps should have twice, and possibly three times that number, to send against one or several targets in the same day. It will be hammer and anvil war against the bellicose Reich.

Air experts say that the RAF and the Yanks are set to deal out such punishment that no nation, not even warlike Germany, can long stand up.

Biggest news of the month on the Labor front is expected to break in Chicago this week.

The executive Board of the American Federation of Labor has assembled to consider the application of John L. Lewis, stormy president of the United Mine Workers, for reinstatement of his more than 540,000 UMW members in the AFL.

The mine union has been divorced from the AFL—its mother union —for some years, in fact, ever since the beginning of the feud between the shaggy-browed Lewis and AFL President William Green.

Petition for reinstatement was submitted by Lewis to the executive Board in Washington last May, at the height of his controversy with the Government and the Nation's coal mine operators over the coal strike.

Best bet is the AFL will take the miners back, and that Green had better be wary lest he begin to play second fiddle to Lewis. . . . President Roosevelt will deliver another war report to the Nation and the world in the near future in another broadcast which will be beamed overseas.

The President's address has been described as a sequel to the one he delivered last week in which he emphasized the "unconditional surrender" terms for Italy, as well as Germany and Japan.

Roosevelt In New Radio Talk

In his second address, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to pay more attention to the "home front" in the "one front" war.

Developments in Europe, with the possibility that Italy may have capitulated, will be thoroughly covered in the Chief Executive's speech. He may also discuss subsidies. . . . Informed sources say that there is a strong probability that the present 20 per cent salary and wage withholding tax rate will be boosted to 25 or 30 per cent when the new tax bill is enacted.

In any event, social security taxes increase one per cent on employer and employe alike on Jan. 1, unless Congress 'freezes" present rates. . . . The only possibility of a sugar shortage developing again is a resumption of the U-boat war in the Caribbean.

While sinkings may increase next winter, the Navy has so expanded its anti-submarine weapons and tactics that disastrous sinkings are not expected. Sugar rationing may be lifted entirely if the U-boat warfare fails to develop in the winter.

Crinkled Muslin Frock

Any of the hand painted cotton lisle stockings would be fun with this dress . . . ivy leaf clockings, true lovers knots in blue with pink buds, polka dotted white

CRINKLED muslin, cotton sheer which has body and which has been pleated in knife folds to stay that way permanently, is the style of this frock. It is an adaptation of the broomstick pleating of Mexican skirts, where the crimps are laid by wrapping wet washed dirndls to a stick until the garment has dried in hit or miss folds.

The dress here is all-black, with a two-color very bright draped sash; it is two-piece, its sleeves and neckline held close by drawstrings. Wear it for hot days and nights as is, use the skirt with muslin peasant blouses or colorful halters.

NIAGARA FALLS CARRIES ON

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont.,—Bridegrooms have always brought their brides to Niagara Falls, but these days most of the grooms are in uniform. As many wedding couples as ever are spending honeymoons at the popular border resorts, and they include a great variety of uniforms—U. S., Canadian, and RAF, as well as those of several of the United Nations who have training stations in Ontario, and many of whom are marrying Canadian girls.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

aboard ship was what put him right with the crustier members of the crew. He stuck out his hand and said, "Just call me Manure!"

WHEN WILL THE WAR END?

Best minds in Washington, combining appraisals of both military and political factors, are definitely optimistic about an early ending of the war in Europe.

The big worry, however, is that the nation will be too over-confident. Over-confidence, coupled with decreased production and slowed-up military moves, can make the war string out for months. Already the slow-up in Sicily, as a result of determined Axis resistance and the few days breather given Badoglio, missed a psychological moment.

Military minds in Washington are not so optimistic. Their job is to reckon on the toughest possible resistance. Gen. Eisenhower, for instance, figured on 30,000 casualties in Sicily, got around 5,000.

But those whose job it is to gauge the steaming political cauldron of Europe are much more optimistic. They remember that 22 days before Germany sued for an armistice, in November, 1918, Field Marshal Haig told Lloyd George it would take well into another year to defeat Germany.

RESUME OF OPINIONS

Here is a brief summary of Washington's political observers:

1. The rumored reshuffling of the German high command is not important. So far as the German army is concerned, it will fight as hard, or harder, without Hitler.

2. But the collapse of Italy will be important. It will take 20 Italian divisions out of the Balkans, which the Germans must replace with their own men.

3. Most important of all, however, is the ceaseless pounding on Germany from the air. Britain was much nearer the end than anyone realized in the Fall of 1940, and she was not pounded a fraction as hard as Germany.

4. The final factor in the collapse of Germany will be the break-down of the civilian front. When railroads, factories, workmen cease to function, the army will have to surrender. This was what finished the German army in 1918 and what will finish it—in the opinion of many shrewd observers—this winter.

Note: Until that time comes, however, here is sound advice from Sir Eric Geddes, First Lord of the Admiralty given to Ike Marcosson in 1917: "Give up hoping that this can be a short war. Plan and provide for an ever receding duration of at least two years more. If we all do this, peace may one day surprise us."

SMALL BUSINESS BLOW-UP

The government's program for the relief of small business is headed for trouble when congress reconvenes next month.

At secret sessions of the Senate Small Business Committee, headed by Senator James Murray of Montana, small businessmen complained about their inability to get government loans for war contracts and sub-contracts, while billions of dollars of government money is being shelled out to big corporations.

The Senate Committee heard complaints about the tight-fisted loan policies of the Smaller War Plants Corporation which would make tight-fisted RFC Administrator Jesse Jones look like Santa Claus.

One example given the Senate Committee was that of the Riverside Boatyard Co. of Miami, which tried to get a loan of only $10,000 from the Smaller War Plants Corporation to complete a war contract. After being turned down, the company got the $10,000 loan from a private bank within 24 hours.

As a result, Senator James Murray of Montana, chairman of the Senate Small Business Committee, is planning some close scrutiny of the Smaller War Plants Corporation.

PRAISES RED CROSS

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn.—Writing his mother that "the Red Cross is the only American organization doing anything for us in this area," Corp. Robert E. Cooper, of Chattanooga, now in Australia, urged Americans to "give all the support" possible. "If you want your money well spent in the interest of service men overseas," he wrote, "give to the Red Cross. They are doing a wonderful work here."

Two Red Birds Hurt In Camp Grant Mishap

By International News Service

Two Columbus Red Birds, Catcher Joe Garagiola and Third Baseman Lou Scoffic, are on the injured list today from injuries sustained in yesterday's exhibition game with Camp Grant.

The double accident occurred when Garagiola and Scoffic ran together as both attempted to catch an infield fly hit by Gene Hasson, Warrior first baseman and a former Red Bird.

They were rushed to Camp Grant's station hospital where attendants said, Scoffic suffered a torn ligament in his left knee. Garagiola was severely shaken up.

The game was called in the sixth inning as a result of the accident. The score was 12 to 2 in favor of Camp Grant. Bob Carpenter, former New York Giant hurler who is now a trainee at Camp Grant, was the winning pitcher while John Lohry was the loser.

St. Paul was swamped by the Great Lakes Blue Jackets, 9 to 1, before 10,000 recruits. It was the Bluejackets' forty-fourth victory of the current season and their fifth over an Association team.

Vern Olsen, former Chicago Cub left-hander, yielded only five hits in picking up his ninth triumph. Johnny Mize lead the 12-hit Sailor attack with a homer and two singles.

BEALS BECKER DIES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 17—Funeral services were being arranged today for Beals Becker, former outfielder for the New York Giants and the Philadelphia Phillies. He died yesterday at the home of a sister, Mrs. John B. Houston, at suburban Huntington Park. Becker participated in three world series—with the Giants in 1911-12, and with the Phils in 1915. Later he performed in the American Association and the Pacific Coast league.

TERRANOVA WINNER

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 17—Phil Terranova of the Bronx, New York, today was the new National Boxing Association featherweight champion by virtue of an eighth-round knockout of Jackie Callura of Canada. The battle, the first championship bout in New Orleans in 26 years, was fought last night before 8,500 fans who paid an estimated $21,500 at the gate.

BUMS JUGGLE LINEUP, THUMP LOOP LEADERS

Rookies Play Big Roles In Rejuvenation Of Brooklyn Outfit

MORT COOPER BEATEN

Reds Win; Indians Fall From Second Slot; Washington Up

By John Cashman

NEW YORK, Aug. 17—Changing horses in midstream is generally regarded as a fatal maneuver, but you can't prove this by the Brooklyn Dodgers. The aggregation of Bums that last night whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 7 to 3, in a twilighter, no more resembled the team that started the 1943 season than Count Fleet resembles a Percheron.

Two new Brooklynites, Howard Schultz and Gene Hermanski, starred in the line-up. Luis Olmo, who was recently brought down from the Montreal farm team, was in center field. Frenchy Bordagaray who has been filling in at outfield posts, was on third, with Augie Galan, who has graced the Brooklyn infield, switched to the outfield.

Schultz, the 6 foot, 6½ inch first baseman acquired Sunday from the St. Paul club, made himself right at home in his Brooklyn debut, by swatting a single and double, and comforting himself with grace in Dolph Camilli's old spot. Hermanski, assigned to right field, gave Brooklyn new hope by coming through in the clutches. And the entire team, sensing, perhaps, that something new had been added, discarded the drab play and futile nonsense that has stamped Dodgers' performances in the past, and belted the Cards in the puss.

Rookies Start It

The Dodgers walloped Mort Cooper for four runs in the fifth. It was Hermanski and Schultz who started Brooklyn on the right trail with a walk and a single, respectively. There followed Bragan's single, Wyatt's first of two doubles, and singles by Bordagaray and Vaughan.

Elsewhere in the National league, things were about the same. The New York Giants played to the smallest crowd of the Polo Grounds season—2,142—in dropping their 68th game of the year, 5 to 2, to the Cincinnati Reds.

Ducky Medwick did most of the stickwork in scoring New York's tallies, hitting a homer in the second, then pushing in another with a fourth-frame double.

The Pittsburgh Pirates thrashed the Boston Braves, 5 to 1, after breaking a 1-all tie in the seventh with two unearned runs. Both clubs made seven hits, but Boston Twirlers Al Javery and Dave Odom were charged with eight walks and a hit batsman, while Pittsburgh's John Gee issued only one pass.

Schoolboy Rowe was the mainspring in the machine that broke the Philadelphia Phillies four-game losing streak last night when he allowed only five hits and defeated the Chicago Cubs, 4 to 3. The victory was Rowe's 11th of the season.

Senators in Second

In the American league, the Washington Senators climbed back into second place with a 6 to 3 victory over the Cleveland Indians. A three-run explosion in the eighth inning clinched the verdict for the Nats after Mickey Vernon had tied the score with his sixth homer of the season.

The league-leading Yankees handed the Chicago White Sox a 7 to 0 defeat last night when Hank Borowy set the Sox down with four hits. Borowy's only close call came in the first inning when Moses singled and stole his 37th base of the year, but held the next three batters.

Another four-hitter in the American league last night was Boston Hurler Mike Ryba, who won his sixth straight victory when the Red Sox defeated the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 0. Buck Newsom's seventh straight start ended in his sixth defeat when Boston pounded him and Charlie Fuchs for 14 safeties.

"SALUTE TO YOUTH"

The men who defend the ships that deliver the sinews of war to our fighting men and allies throughout the world will be hailed on "Salute to Youth," when that series pays tribute to the Navy's armed guard on Tuesday, August 24, at 7:30 p. m., over station WLW. The "Service Story of the Week" will dramatize incidents from the record of these gun crews, and the week's guest from the production front, Ed Kramer, will describe how seagoing barrage balloons are keeping enemy planes from making low-level attacks. Nadine Conner, Metropolitan Opera soprano, joins Raymond Paige's "Young Americans" orchestra and chorus in "Kiss in the Dark" and "Heavenly Music." Rose Gotesman, 18-year-old New Yorker, daughter of a waiter, whose soldier brother taught her drumming, will be spotlighted in "Mood Indigo," and the orchestra will be heard in "Of Thee I Sing" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

MARTIAL NOTE

Bandleader Sammy Kaye will introduce a new march number on his program Wednesday. It's titled "I Love the Marching Song," and Kaye predicts it will become THE marching song of this war. In line with the government's request that bandleaders feature martial airs, Kaye has been spotlighting such numbers in dance tempo on his Wednesday night broadcasts.

BIRD STUFF

The sarcastic parrot who gives both Joan Davis and Jack Haley the "bird" on their program is portrayed by one of radio's most gifted mimics, Mel Blanc, who supplies the voices for most of the rabbits, pigs and barnyard critters in the Leon Schlesinger movie cartoons. He'll bring the parrot back to the Davis-Haley funfest this Thursday, August 19, when William Bendix guest stars.

TAUGHT ENGLISH

Listeners to "Thanks to the Yanks" who have remarked about Quipmaster Bob Hawk's diction and choice of words, may find it interesting to learn that Hawk was an English instructor when he was only 18 years old. The flip quipster taught junior high school students back in Creston, Iowa, Hawk's home town. "The quizzes I gave then," he recalls, "were tougher than the questions I ask on 'Thanks to the Yanks.'"

CHILD WONDER

Bandleader Woody Herman's stage presence and poise before film cameras is not unusual when you consider that he's been in show business for sixteen years. Woody began to study saxophone at nine. At 11, he was proficient enough to tackle the clarinet. A year later he became a professional, trouping throughout the nation as a single act which featured his hoofing, sax and clarinet artistry. Woody was a song and dance man at the age of 12!

PLAYS CAMPS ON TOURS

Whenever she goes on a theatre tour, singer-comedienne Beatrice Kay always stipulates in her contract that she be permitted to play at least one service camp in the theatre's locale. Bea also makes sure that scores of uniformed men are admitted free during her engagement.

DISC DATA

Dick Haymes' Decca recordings of "You'll Never Know" and "It Can't Be Wrong" are the number one and two records in the country. They head the best-seller lists in that order in every section of of the nation, according to official surveys.

RADIO NEWS NOTES

Agnes Moorehead, known to dialers as Marilly, the housekeeper on Lionel Barrymore's series, "The Mayor of the Town" over CBS Wednesday nights, gets her own starring role as a guest on "Suspense" when that program moves to a new day and time on CBS Saturday, August 21, at 7:30 p. m. Her story will be "Sorry, Wrong Number."

New Brown Stamp Ration Book Goes Into Use September 12

COUNTY BOARD CITES RULES ON FOOD PURCHASES

Point Values Unchanged For Meats, Fats, Butter, Oils And Cheese

EXPIRATION DATES SET

Point Values For Frozen Fruits In 10 Pound Lots Are Doubled

War Ration Book No. 3, filled with brown stamps, will be put into use September 12 for purchase of meats, fats, oils, butter and cheese. Pickaway county War Price and Rationing board was informed Tuesday of the date for the new ration book to be used.

Brown stamps will replace War Ration Book 2, red stamps from which are about used up. Point values will be the same.

The local office was also informed that from now on the meats-butter-fats stamps will expire on the Saturday nearest the end of the month with the new sets becoming valid on successive Sundays.

Red Stamp Dates

OPA announced validity dates for the last red stamps in Book 2, stamps X, Y and Z. These will expire October 2, and will be valid as follows: stamp X, August 22; stamp Y, August 29; stamp Z, September 5.

Brown stamps A and B which become valid on September 12 and 19 respectively will both expire October 2. The next four brown stamps all of which expire October 30, will be valid on the following dates; stamp C, September 26; stamp D, October 3; stamp E, October 10, and stamp F, October 17.

Between September 12, when the first brown stamps are good, and October 2, when the final sets of red stamps expire, both red and brown stamps may be used. After October 2 only brown stamps may be used.

Blue stamps in Ration Book No. 1 will last until in November. These stamps are good for canned, frozen and dried foods.

Blue stamps U, V and W will become valid Setpember 1 and may be used until October 20.

Values Increased

OPA disclosed Tuesday that the point values of frozen fruits sold in containers of more than 10 pounds have been raised to 12 points a pound from six, effective immediately. Purchases made Tuesday will be under the new point value system.

This action was taken, the rationing office was informed, to limit the general use of frozen fruits for industrial purposes so that adequate supplies will be available to increase the output of preserves, jams and jellies.

Gasoline dealers will be prohibited after September 1 from accepting old type B and C gasoline ration coupons. Car owners still holding old-style books should exchange them for new sheets of coupons between August 23 and September 1.

The trade will be made on a coupon-for-coupon basis. Its benefits, according to OPA, will be to make useless any stolen, illegally held, or counterfeit coupons of the old type.

Gas Coupons

It will be easy for motorists to tell whether they are using old or new coupons, the rationing office said. The old ones were printed with the words "Permits delivery of one unit of gasoline." The new ones carry only the words "Mileage Ration" plus a large letter "B" or "C".

Outstanding 100-gallon bulk coupons, issuance of which was discontinued June 15, will be invalidated September 15. Beginning August 23, holders of such coupons must apply to ration boards to have them exchanged for regular coupons of the appropriate classes, B, C, E, R, TT, or in case of large users for ration book certificates.

OPA declared also Tuesday that after September 1 shoe stamps removed from ration books must be used for mail order purchases.

Local ration boards will issue special shoe stamps in cases of detachment by accident or mistake.

BIOGRAPHY OF ROBERT E. LEE NOW AVAILABLE

Circleville public library has received the four-volume Pulitzer Prize biography, "R. E. Lee," by Douglas Southall Freeman, and it is now ready for circulation. Daniel R. Pfoutz, librarian, said Tuesday that many Circleville and Pickaway county persons interested in history and biography have been inquiring for the volume.

In commenting on the work, the librarian said: "The author, working for nineteen years to produce this biography of Robert E. Lee, consulted every available source of material. He has woven military history, military biography and personal narrative into an exciting and moving book."

"The first two volumes," he continued, "begin with Lee's boyhood and background and end with the death of Stonewall Jackson following the battle of Chancellorsville in 1863. The remaining volumes cover the period from 1863 to 1870. The chapter on Lee's surrender, in volume four, is superb, a masterpiece of narrative writing, simply told, effective, filled with tragic power."

A companion piece to this work is a three volume set by Freeman entitled Lee's Lieutenants: A Study In Command, which grew out of the mass of material collected for Lee's biography. It, too, is definitive, complete and authentic in detail, and still warmly appealing in its treatment of Lee and his higher officers.

Not only is this set a best seller in American bookshops at present, but also it is "must" reading for most army officers today. This is due to Mr. Freeman's treatment of the part these men played in the campaigns of northern Virginia and his interest in them as military men. As in the Lee biography, the author recreates, battle conditions, strategy, tactics, problems of terrain, transportation, weather, and all such matters easily forgotten or overlooked. In order to follow the action, the movement of various armies, and the strategy involved, the books are filled with maps and sketches and are well illustrated. A valuable aid in following the details and getting a picture of the historical development of America is the Atlas of American History edited by James Truslow Adams and recently published by Scribners.

WAR EFFORT OF F. B. I. OUTLINED FOR KIWANIS

Work of the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the war effort and the role the public can play in assisting agents of the FBI in fighting sabotage, espionage and subversive activities were outlined Monday for Kiwanians when Richard N. Hunter of the Columbus office of the federal agency discussed "The FBI Front."

Mr. Hunter's address was extremely interesting and a lengthy question and answer program which followed his talk brought out many interesting factors.

The special agent said that the FBI has been doing a good job in all three phases of its work despite the fact that the organization is undermanned. When war clouds were gathering in 1940 President Roosevelt put all sabotage, espionage and subversive activities investigations in the hands of the FBI.

Mr. Hunter urged members of the club to work with law enforcement officials in keeping a watch for any actions which they think might be detrimental to the war effort. Any suspicious acts should be reported at once to the local chief of police or the sheriff, both of whom are cooperating to the fullest extent with the FBI, the speaker said.

The investigator discussed the FBI laboratory in Washington, its identification bureau, training members of the organization undergo, qualifications for becoming a member of the organization.

Mr. Hunter highlighted his talk with a discussion of the famed Duquesne espionage case in which counterespionage resulted in 33 arrests and extermination of a Grman spy ring. He said that at the start of the investigation the FBI knew the leaders of the ring but made no arrests for almost two years when the work carried on by the FBI resulted in the entire ring being jailed and sent to long terms in prison.

BIG INCH POURS VALUABLE OIL INTO STORAGE

The "Big Inch", crude oil pipeline running through Pickaway county, is starting to pour its valuable product into huge storage tanks on the east coast. The oil pipeline is in operation at Marcus Hook, Pa., where 100,000 barrels of crude oil a day are being put into tanks.

When the flow reaches full capacity of the 24-inch line the big carrier will pour 150,000 barrels into tanks at Marcus Hook and another 150,000 into tanks waiting at Bayonne, N. J. The 300,000-barrel flow will not be possible however until the 25 pumping stations placed along the line from Longview, Texas, to the east coast are completed.

Work is being speeded on Pickaway county's pumping station on the John Porter farm at Five Points, but the installation is not yet ready for operation.

Last link in the 24-inch line was completed during the week end when contractors sent the big line across the Susquehanna river. This crossing took much more time than was expected, but success finally marked the engineering effort.

Crude oil has been moving through the line in Pickaway county for the last two weeks.

Work is progressing on the 20-inch line which will be run just north of the 24-inch carrier. Ditching outfits are operating in western Ohio, while workmen of the C. S. Foreman Co. are busy with their Scioto river, Darby creek and Deer creek crossings.

McCRADY WOULD BRING MACKEY HERE FOR TRIAL

Police Chief W. F. McCrady is checking with authorities of Wakefield, Mass., to learn whether Circleville will be able to obtain custody of Alfred Mackey, under arrest in Wakefield for a violation the nature of which the chief has not yet been informed.

A warrant for Mackey's arrest has been in Chief. McCrady's desk since December 3, 1941, when Roy Brown, then manager of the Isaly store, charged Mackey with embezzling $179.89.

The chief sent a telegram Monday to Wakefield to learn whether Mackey can be released to Circleville and whether he will waive extradition.

O. C. D. MEMBERS ARE INVITED TO WAR SPECTACLE

Personnel of the Circleville and Pickaway county Councils of Civilian Defense have been invited to witness "Action Overhead", the War department's military spectacle, which will be presented Friday, August 27, at Ohio State university. There will be no admission charged.

"Action Overhead" is conducted by the chemical warfare service of the United States army. Eight officers and 39 enlisted men are with the traveling troupe carrying properties valued at $50,000.

Two acts comprise the spectacle, Act 1 showing bombs, incendiaries, conflagrations, white phosphorus, solid oil bomb and primacord demonstration. Act 2 is a startling simulation of actual air raid depicting what might happen during an air attack with an added demonstration of army flame throwers.

It was indicated Tuesday that numerous key personnel of the city and county organizations may go to Columbus to witness the demonstration, declared by observers to be sensational in all its aspects.
